LINGUISTIC DIVERSITY

(3) Proofs of Isha - Annual College Magazine and other publications depicting linguistic diversity

Principal's Message

"The worst enemy to creativity is self-doubt."

Sylvia Math

Since its inception, the Vivekananda College magazine Isha has always been a flag bearer of creativity and inspiration. The ability to create is innate to every human being and Isha has provided an official platform for the students of the college to express themselves in diverse ways. Time and again, Isha has provided the necessary impetus to young and inspired creators to write, sketch, paint and optise. This year, after a unanimous decision taken by the Publication Committee, Isha is being uploaded on the College Website particularly as an e-magazine. This decision has been taken keeping in mind the urgent and absolute need to conserve paper in the contemporary time of adverse climate change. This year, too, there has been an overwhelming response by the students regarding submission of articles, poems, short stories in multiple languages and branching into diverse genres. There have also been delightful sketches and paintings, few of which have been selected as our cover, back cover and the dividing pages of various sections.

The world we live in is increasingly being turned into a restrictive place where hatred is pre-determining most forms of introspection and opinion formation. In the midst of such chaos and socio-political oppression the ability and right to articulate what one feels becomes paramount. Through Isha we hope to enable the students to voice themselves freely and arrive at a true understanding of their own self as well as the reality enveloping them. This creative space extends beyond the official curriculum inside the classrooms and helps to broaden the minds and diverse comprehending abilities.

I congratulate the entire editorial team of the magazine and appreciate their dedication. I also sincerely wish that Isha continues to inspire the students in the years ahead.

Isha 2020

Vivekananda College
University of Delhi

CHIEF EDITORIAL:

In 2019, the Publication Committee made the momentous decision to publish an e-magazine. The decision was maintained keeping in mind the shortage of paper and other resources, which are integrally associated with print publication. The first 'Isha' e-magazine was uploaded on the college website, hand-crafted, designed, conceptualized and consolidated by a completely in-house team of Faculty and students of Vivekananda College.

The decision to continue the magazine in the e-format became more inevitable than imperative in 2020. On one hand was the glorious occasion of the Golden Jubilee of the college, requiring appropriate and adequate representation of the phenomenal and outstanding events which have been organized. On the other hand was the hitherto unseen and fatal pandemic, subverting normalcy in all spheres. What came across as a huge relief and assurance for the Publication Committee was the sheer hope and positivity shown by the students through their numerous submissions. Pushing the frontiers of profound fear, irreversible loss, death and destruction, the students of Vivekananda College overruled us with their creativity, insight and sensitivity. Even the faculty evoked their support through their own submissions. The Publication Committee feels extremely grateful and honoured to be at the receiving end and preserve these inspired expressions.

The Committee would like to thank Dr. Hina Nandwaj, Principal, Vivekananda College, and Mr. Minish Kuroshik, Chairperson, Governing Body, the Administration Department, the Faculty and the Students for their invaluable support and insight.

Keeping in mind the lessons of self-dependency, so intrinsically associated with this unprecedented time, this year, too, the Publication Committee has collected, edited, designed and collated submitted data in the form of an e-magazine. 'Isha' has become a metaphor for celebrating and commemorating the Golden Jubilee of the college and also a reminder of not surrendering to the storming pressures of the current time. We hope 'Isha' continues to flourish with the creative outpourings of the students and exist as a safe and free space to enable interplay and expression of ideas and emotions.

Warm Regards
Publication Committee

CHAIRPERSON'S MESSAGE

"Education is the most powerful weapon which you can use to change the world."

Nelson Mandela

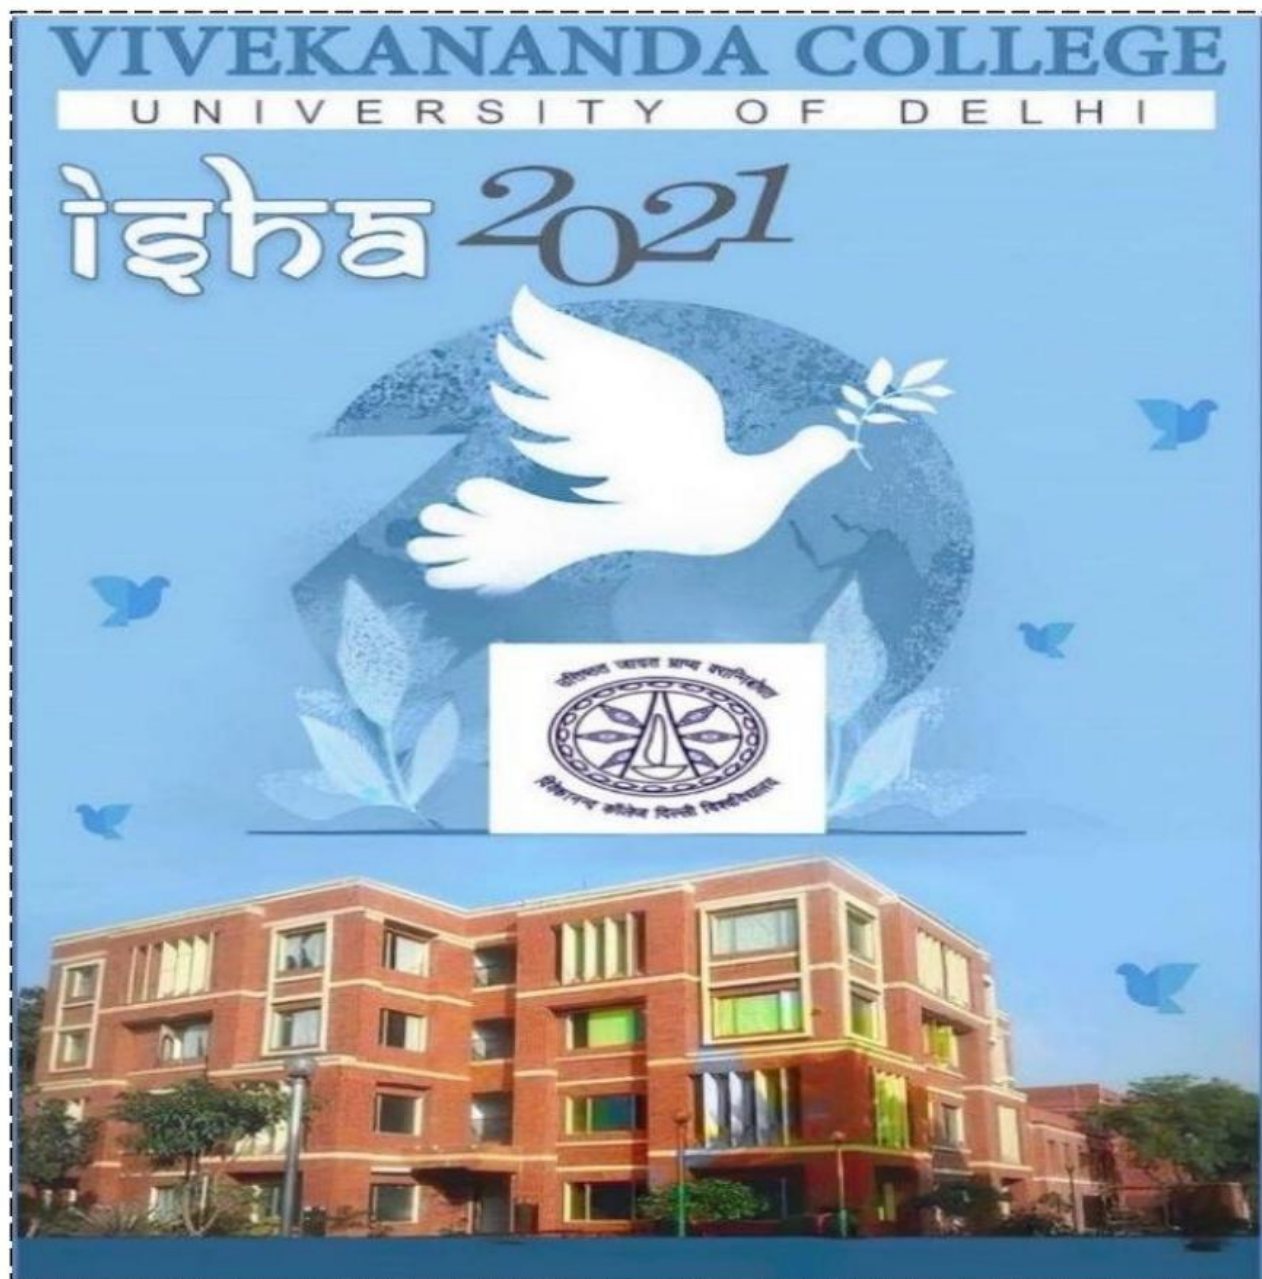

It is truly a matter of pride and honour to address everybody as the Chairperson of Vivekananda College. It is heartening to acknowledge the relentless pursuit of the college towards excellence by recognizing knowledge as a liberating force. Vivekananda College has carved a name for itself in the academic scenario and enabled numerous students to achieve higher education. It not only is the most powerful tool to bring desirable change in our society, but also leads to the creation of thinking and compassionate individuals. It has been the continuous effort of the college to overcome the negative barriers of prejudice and ignorance. Our college is committed to contribute towards making a harmonious and just society.

The college magazine, Isha, is significant as it respects differences and promotes creative extra-curricular space for the students. It brings forward a harmonious collaboration of diverse creative interests. The college magazine is the best platform for students to showcase the creative talent in the form of opinions, concerns, questions, doubts and their views. It also provides them the freedom to create their own imaginative worlds of fantasy and wonder.

I would like to express my heartiest congratulations to the Principal and the Publication Committee for providing this space to students. I also congratulate and put on record my appreciation for the efforts of the students in all fields.

Best wishes

NEWSLETTER

Foreword

In her essay 'Writing as An Act of Hope' Isabel Allende declares, "[n] one, finally women are breaking through the rule of silence and raising a strong voice to question the world [with] a literature that doesn't invent history or try to explain the world solely through reason, but also seeks knowledge through feelings and imagination."

Literature is the art of written work. Over the past two centuries the role of women has changed dramatically. Many women writers have made their very own selective universe in direct restriction in reacting to the male ruled artistic world. Mary Wollstonecraft's A Vindication on the Rights of Women (1792) has not only inspired many women but also sparked many women related discussions. In 70's, 80's, second wave feminism initiated a revival in creating a place of women's work in spite of years of discussion concerning the gender diversity benefits, progress has been very slow. Eventually juxtaposition of the accounts presents a more holistic image as we have a tendency to be attracted to the ideas relevant to gender equality across disciplines. Today there are many women writers but this doesn't mean that gender disparities have been eradicated, much has been accomplished and many more things are yet to come. Pattern is upward.

Editorial

It's about women's voices, their right to speak, their right to be heard. As a special issue on women narrators we have provided a space for perspectives and standpoints which have managed to break through the shackles of sheer dismissal to disregard and discrimination. There are evocative poetry, lucid prose and thought provoking articles on myriad issues ranging from sexual abuse, disability, LGBTQ+ accounts and above all the experience of being a woman, the expectations, idealisations and its reality. Throughout the narrative of the newsletter there is questioning of gender stereotypes, a reason to celebrate defiance, the glory well deserved by the rebel, the sparkling intelligence of the thinking woman, the talent of the skilled craftswomen and the visual and written display of creativity.

The format of the newsletter has been deliberately transformed to include essential reports of the various activities organised by the Department. Wordweaves becomes an important platform to acknowledge and appreciate the efforts of the faculty and the students who come together to participate in, organize and celebrate events and activities with utmost dedication and sincerity. Along with the celebration of budding creative artists, Wordweaves 2018-19 also wishes to be a record of the camaraderie and vibrancy of the department.

GANDHI STUDY CIRCLE COMMITTEE

Gandhi Study Circle of Vivekananda College a college committee to promote Gandhian values among students, held a virtual talk on Mahatma Gandhi and Women Empowerment on 16th April 2021. The event was one of the first programmes chalked out by the committee for the academic year January 2021 to December 2021. The guest speaker for the event was Dr. Alok Bajpai, a renowned scholar and researcher on Gandhi, and former Nehru Memorial fellow. The event received a fairly good response from the participants which included both students and faculty members from the college including the committee members who were left mesmerized with the speaker's erudition and clarity of thought on Gandhi's contribution in empowering the women, in India and outside. The talk began with the singing of one of Gandhi's favourite bhajans- Vaishnava Jan by Mansi and Pallavi, students from the Music Department under the supervision of Dr. Deepa Varshney. This was followed by the explanation of the song in Hindi by Dr. Dilip Jaiswal which, he said, had been originally composed in old Gujarati by Narsih Mehta in the 15th century and evoked quintessential human traits and feelings like compassion, non-violence, empathy and affection.

Dr. Alok Bajpai started the talk by reflecting on the popular attitude towards Gandhi when it came to the question of women in his personal as well as social life. He argued, "Mahatma Gandhi's contribution to Indian freedom struggle is vividly known to all of us in terms of his strategies and techniques of Satyagraha, non-violence, civil disobedience etc. To fight the colonial powers and how India as a nation pulled itself out of those clutches of domination and oppression. Yet, when it comes to talking about his role as a social reformer and challenger to patriarchal norms in the Indian society to bring women of all ranks and size on equal footing with their male counterparts, there is hardly any acknowledgment of this aspect of his life either in academia or public consciousness". To elaborate upon his main argument, he discussed many incidents from Gandhi's personal life and social interactions which not only highlighted a never-before-seen side of Gandhi to empower women but also busted many myths maligning his image during his interactions with women. Before the close of the talk, Dr. Bajpai replied to questions from the audience with patience and utmost clarity.

The session ended with a vote of thanks to the honourable guest, Dr. Alok Bajpai from the convener of the committee, Mrs. Anita Bakshi. She listed the takeaways from the informative talk
